Sarah Cornally

Sydney, Australia

AREAS OF EXPERTISE:

- Adaptive Leadership
- Applying Systemic Intelligence
- C Suite and Boards
- Top Team Individual and Collective Leadership Effectiveness
- Personal and Collective Transformation
- Building the Internal Capability to Transform the System

Sarah's work focuses on enabling leaders to collectively create successful businesses and organisations, in which people thrive whilst achieving the organisation's purpose. She has a special interest in developing a greater capacity in leaders to respond insightfully and effectively to uncertainty and complexity by rising to the challenges and exploring adaptive solutions.

Experience

Sarah Cornally has over 30 years consulting experience, working at executive and board levels in the areas of leadership strategy and development; organisational change and issue resolution; effective system and group dynamics; and executive coaching and mentoring.

Graduating from the University of Sydney's Cumberland College of Health Sciences as an Occupational Therapist, Sarah developed a refined expertise in treating severely injured workers and returning them to gainful employment. She honed her strategic leadership and influence skills through the employment relations associated with this work. She worked extensively with people from different cultures and countries, bridging various cross-cultural issues.

Sarah is sought out by Board Directors and C-Suite Executives to provide consulting services in leadership, cultural change and issue resolution because of her reputation in resolving complex and challenging issues.

Since then she has advised leaders in both global and top 100 Australian companies and many government organisations, including APRA, CBA, the Department of the Prime Minister & Cabinet, DMO, Attorney Generals Department, Coca Cola Amatil, KPMG, IAG, Macquarie Bank, McAfee, Microsoft, NAB, Natixis, PWC, QBE, TOMRA Foods, UTS, Suncorp and VF Corporation.

Sarah led certifications in the Asia Pacific region for the transformational leadership technology, and Leadership Circle® for over 15 years. For over 10 years she was an accredited facilitator on the AICD faculty including the Board Ready program and the advanced diploma, 'Mastering the Boardroom'. She has completed Master level training internationally in organisational systems dynamics and now trains consultants in this field.

Qualifications

Sarah's academic qualifications include studies in behavioural, biological and engineering sciences as well as in organisational behaviour and industrial relations. She earned a Masters Degree in Safety Science from the University of New South Wales and is a graduate of Harvard University's The Art & Practice of Leadership Development. She is a Fellow of the Australian Institute of Company Directors and an Associate Fellow of the Australian Institute of Management.
